C.A. No. 17-54S

REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION

PATRICIA A. SULLIVAN, United States Magistrate Judge.

The motion for emergency relief (ECF No. 16) of Plaintiff Jeannette Ayinkamiye essentially sets out the same vague request for injunctive relief that was sought by Plaintiff's motion for preliminary injunction (ECF No. 3), on which a hearing was held and which was addressed in the Report and Recommendation (ECF No. 9) currently pending before the Court. Plaintiff's latest motion for an injunction has only one specific request: it asks the Court to order Defendant Rhode Island College ("RIC") to appoint its director of disability services to be her "go to person" until the case is resolved. However, at the first hearing, RIC had already made plain that it would assist Plaintiff in finding an appropriate advocate to guide her through the grievance process. Nothing in Plaintiff's new motion suggests that it has not done so. Nor does Plaintiff explain why a particular person is more appropriate than another person that RIC considers to be appropriate. Accordingly, the proposed findings and conclusions in the Report and Recommendation are restated in response to Plaintiff's new motion for emergency relief. Based on the foregoing, I recommend that the motion be denied for the reasons stated therein.

Any objection to this report and recommendation must be specific and must be served and filed with the Clerk of the Court within fourteen (14) days after its service on the objecting party. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 72(b)(2); DRI LR Cv 72(d). Failure to file specific objections in a timely manner constitutes waiver of the right to review by the district judge and the right to appeal the Court's decision. See United States v. Lugo Guerrero, 524 F.3d 5, 14 (1st Cir. 2008); Park Motor Mart, Inc. v. Ford Motor Co., 616 F.2d 603, 605 (1st Cir. 1980).
